

Why is the world like it is?

Issued date: 01 Aug 2007

Why?

Why does it have to be like this?

Why? Why? Why?

This website www.FutureLife.Org explains differing aspects of this all through the information presented!

However many people keep asking me they want a short circuit route to understand why there is pain and suffering now.

Genuinely they feel that: - If they were able to understand these things – then they would feel more endeared to The Almighty God (Yahweh/Jehovah or Allah if coming through a heavily censored document).

This dissertation is split into two halves. The first half is establishing where we are at present. It makes for depressing reading but we do need to face reality!

The second half expands into a refreshing answer. However you need the first to appreciate the second – that is why our life is like it is now!

The most important thing to realise is that we all are now living in a transient stage of our lives. This transient stage is to show us how horrible this world is at present for many of us, but I want to reassure the reader that it shall not last forever – and thus there will be a resurrection for all humans who have existed over the last 6000 years into a most wonderful environment.

There is only one way to understand and so fully appreciate how horrible this world is, and that is to experience it by living our present life in it!

There is absolutely no other alternative! It is only way the vast majority of humans learn – is by experience.

Sadly because very few people take advice beforehand from others to wisely guide their own lives (always assuming they know better – or it will not happen to them – basically as The Bible teaches us – they are “stiff-necked”).

Thus the reader should be reminded of a very important human trait.

This trait is demonstrated at various levels within every single human alive now on this planet.

Humans cannot be told anything. The vast majority will refuse to accept wise advice.

Humans want to do things their own way! They want to make their own personal choice – to do what is ‘wise’ in their own eyes.

It is an accepted truism that children only learn by doing.

Also, when adults face something new, they too are often like children!

If there was an external input dictating how we should behave – humans automatically think of a way of getting around it – or become disgruntled and so moan about it!

I ask the reader to think on the word “dictator” – what image does this word bring to mind?

Immediately internal barriers are being raised within our mind – and the conscious statement comes out:

“They are not going to tell me what to do!”

This is precisely what I am trying to explain here. To sort out this world and make it fair for every single individual, then this New Leader must become a “dictator” and make many individuals behave in a particular manner alien to their present and normal way of life. Thus repeating, this new leader would become a “dictator” to the vast majority of people to drive through the best policies for all humans (and other life) to live under. So to these very many people who view this New Leader as a “dictator”, then they will try to find ways to shirk jobs, try to come out on top at the expense of others, else take from others (either by unjustified benefit or by stealing) and so behave in a morality that is alien to this New Leader’s requirements. So generally all these like-minded people will just push against these new laws that have been made to benefit all life on this planet.

However some individuals are more compliant than others – but we are all ‘in the same boat’ – this one planet – and so forced to experience the spin-offs from the less compliant individuals who now personally desire to control others – in fact just as we are doing now!

What I have stated above is completely factual!

I shall make the bold statement:

“The above stated observations of humans living on this planet just cannot be argued against – it is a fact!”

So I now ask the reader:-

“How would YOU go about to sort this worldly mess out?”

Please remember:-

There are billions of eyes watching YOU – any pair of eyes ready to find just one example where YOU have made a mistake and caused some injustice to any single individual, now or who has existed in the past!

So again; I ask:-

“How do you sort this problem out?”

You are not at liberty to start throwing criticisms at this New Leader if you are not able to offer any credible alternatives!

I would like to suggest there is a route to sort all this worldly mess out in the most marvellous way.

But again, and so being very forceful here, I must ask again:-

“Has the reader thought of a solution yet?”

At this stage some readers will stop reading this – I would suggest that perhaps these individuals feel that this text does not apply to them!

They are not interested in the plight of others – just themselves! However I would suggest this piece is very much directed to these many particular individuals who would specifically find this New Leader - very much a “dictator”! There are other individuals who are reading this thinking:- “I cannot think of a solution – but will read further because I care for the humans and animal life who at present suffer so much at the hands of others”.

The problem the reader should also realise is that the progress of science cannot solve this basic problem!

The increasing Generic Science knowledge is an innate property operated by humans. The manner in which this knowledge is exercised by those leaders in power is just pushing a greater gulf between those who have, and those who have not – examples are legion between countries and within countries as we witness over the last 40 years and continuing so!

Thus can we fall back to humanists (having the following sub-groups, agnostics, atheists) to sort these problems out? Not really, because we have examples of humanists running societies, Stalin, Hitler, Pol Pot and The Red Khmers, or other possible communist regimes in the 20th century, these individuals certainly did not improve things for people but made things so bad for so many of their countrymen.

I do not leave out democracies because they are almost as bad, but behave in a fashion where their indiscretions are not so blatant! Also democracies tend to fawn themselves with some semblance of a world religion – thus for this reason I excluded them out of the humanists’ argument!

Perhaps we can look to religions?

I have studied them in minute detail.

I now strongly invite them to:-

Explain how their understanding is able to improve the life for those who existed in the past – or those alive now in a perfectly fair manner for those inside and outside their religion. I can give the reader my personal assurance that all the worldly religions on this planet cannot!

I know these religions inside out, and they fail dismally to explain all issues of fairness and justice to the deepest level (they are only capable to the first and very superficial level) – so I welcome them to do just that! They have my email address! Let the reader “Watch this space”!

May I now propose something to the reader?

What would you do if you had infinite power and wisdom?

To quote: “I (make) become what/who I choose to become”?

The reader may retort:-

I would immediately destroy all those now who are oppressing others!

I would then resurrect all the good people!

But that is precisely what all these worldly religions proclaim!

And I have already stated these fail at lower levels of justice!

Why?

The reader must understand that things are not quite as simple as stated!

How do you determine who is good and who is bad in this present world where all people are bad (to varying degrees) by exercising self-indulgency ‘to the hurt of their neighbour’?

Where would the reader make the cut-off point? This very critical pass / fail point!

What about those humans who were born in an environment, where they could only survive by behaving badly – surely because they were forced in this position by accident of birth perhaps you adjust the pass / fail threshold – but by how much?

This is just an infinitesimal example out of many millions operating now on this very planet.

However – The Reader has infinite power and wisdom – so this threshold position could be adjusted precisely.

But this could be countered by my earlier statement:-

Your judgements must be seen to be perfect by other entities that do not possess your infinite power and wisdom!

Else there would always be dissatisfaction within any lower reasoning entity watching who exists, and that may be anywhere in The Universe.

Also this 'judged upon' individual has not experienced what it is like to live in a world where fellow humans are actively trying to help this person to behave correctly.

But perhaps, this individual may then behave badly, because of some internal latent tendency to 'Lord it over' those trying to help and thus become 'a dictator in their own right' now this new opportunity has presented itself!

All these worldly religions cannot explain this (only because they are concentrating on 'the self'). The one closest is perhaps some form of continual reincarnation so that the individual can experience all these different positions in life. However I have vigorously exploded that myth in the section entitled False Religions and quite prepared to extend it further if required in my email response section.

Thus there 'has to be' another method to sort this worldly mess out into something more beautiful for everyone. As I have alluded to earlier, there is another way.

However we cannot leave just at this position in our observations at present.

The life on this planet is still limping on. The humans exercising power (within the democratic countries) are still promising:-

Give us another term of government and we will sort out all your problems!

So we have to give them that additional term – Because they have 'promised' to sort things out.

And in return we pay their salary and expense claims that are so much larger than their salary!

However, in the meantime the planet and its lesser inhabitants become more oppressed.

We have the Religious Community promising:-

Belong to our group – our faith will help you out – We will give you the future that you deserve!

When our religion is in control on this earth then everything will be all right – give us your support NOW!

The religions offer this 'pie in the sky' and many people just slink away in disbelief!

While others stay and just pay their dues to keep their leaders, 'Lording' this message over them!

Then we have some members of the science community promising:-

Allow us to solve the mysteries of the Human Genome and we will be able give humans' immortality!

(Immortality – in this present worldly system – "No thank you!")

Let us have enough time and we will solve all the world's energy problems!

Etc!

They offer these 'promises', because these scientists are genuinely interested in their pure subject (and I personally respect them the most for that), but they too, require funding for their work - else they too become impoverished. And thus become beholden to the pay master – as we witness!

So I ask the reader: "Where does all this take us"?

All the time we see things getting progressively worse, morally and physically (all life and the planet - itself).

Agreed there are some humans in affluent countries having more trinkets (electronic goodies) to play with (self-indulgently consume time), and perhaps a greater variety of food on their plate, (and illegal drugs to go with them) but there are many, many more people who are becoming relatively more impoverished in the less developed world (or less developed parts of the developed world)!

This is hardly a fair situation giving justice to all humans and animals on this planet - and the results of industrial progress are going in the wrong direction!

And worse, the world's resources will be raped faster and in a totally unsustainable manner when developing countries reach that of Western and particularly USA standard of living (often raping those countries beneath them in unfair WTO deals – where power 'dominates the deal').

Examples abound to declare this as being a totally factual statement.

So we are exactly back full circle – where we were at the beginning of this document and those who are concerned about these issues are now further depressed!

And their question has not been answered!

However I have tried to show the reader that mankind has not got the answer and will never have the answer!

Thus we have to go outside this planet – to look for the answer!

Now there is an answer!

At present Humans have this basic trait being of:-

"You cannot tell me what to do – I know best with my own life" (I want the freedom to hurt myself and destroy my body – some examples, through smoking, excessive drinking, taking of drugs etc. – Don't you force your Will onto me – for my own good!).

And this is just over the obvious. We could run onto the less obvious – course or fine moral decisions that must be made about how we behave to one another.

Then there is the morality of lying, deceiving, stealing, slandering, physical and mental abuse, etc, etc.

Many people want the freedom to do this – while others do not.

All this, together with the physical state of the planet whose damaged is so visible by human activity (Ozone layer, carbon dioxide levels, pollution, lack of resources, etc) has to be proved to humans that they cannot sort these problems out. Thus unfortunately the planet and life will degenerate to a point where life cannot exist in its present form.

Because unless this physical fact is demonstrated as a reality to humans, that they cannot sort this mess out – then there will always be just that possible argument:–

“Well WE humans could have sorted out these problems – if YOU gave us enough time”!

Thus it is for this one human trait of self-pride (being that we personally know best, and want the best for ourselves = basic selfishness) - that we put ourselves in this position, to unfortunately have it proved to ourselves that we could not do it our way!

Unfortunately because the very worldly leaders in the various positions of this world (religious and political) put themselves in that position and claim that they are able to sort these things out – and because we put them there and so endorse their claims, thus automatically puts all of us in the same sinking ship!

Thus we see politicians certainly have not got the answer – they have had 6000 years or so, and the situation has got worse!

Things are not likely to improve in the next 50 years and that is all we have!

So perhaps turn to religions?

They have even less of an answer!

Many religions are spiteful to those humans outside their own religion (thus hardly proponents of justice, except those purported to be within it – thus shows the shallowness of them), and reincarnation brings you back to a world that is getting steadily worse – so that is a non-starter as well!

The basic problem is that those who have got something do not particularly care about those who have not (though this would be fiercely contested for political reasons and self-gratification), and those without anything have no voice and are not seen by those with plenty, so these humans just ‘disappear’ off the earth!

This is a disgusting attitude – but unfortunately all too prevalent in this world – perhaps the odd and occasional ‘prick of the conscience’ to do a little ‘something’ just to ease the conscience – but it is not going to change the structure and mechanism of the way the world is operating now (or through future generations)!

Just toss in that pound coin or that dollar once a week or month – so that we can tell ourselves:- “We have done something!”

I regret to say that is about as far as it goes!

So again where do we go to find the answer?

I finished writing the above late Friday night on the 26th November 2004. Then as an example to the above, I am able to demonstrate with clarity the accuracy of my attestations:-

Early Saturday morning (27th) at 06:45hrs I listened to BBC Radio 4 program call Weekend Farming and their subject matter was on drug abuse in Lincolnshire. Basically it was three times worse than believed (by the higher authorities) in the countryside and the differentiation of support money to tackle this problem was heavily weighted against the rural areas. It was also shown that drug abuse was becoming progressively worse in the countryside. Evidence and official figures were given in the program to support this conjecture.

The program then went on to interview a ‘leader’ in charge of this situation, who was asked:- What they thought about the worsening figures of drug abuse. And the reply came back “We are not failing because.....!”

However, if my company went ‘down hill’, then as director, could I say I was not failing with any credibility? – But evidently this particular leader felt he was not failing when things were clearly getting much worse!

Then the minister for Rural Affairs was interviewed and was asked about the differentiation between the two areas, He replied: There is no difference between the two areas When pressed on the figures given ... I cannot comment on individual matters!

Then I listened on the News at 07.00 hrs. A survey of the British people gave the result that 2/3 of those interviewed thought something should be done to tackle global warming, which infers that the remainder either were not concerned or thought there was no requirement for this.

Then I heard that the Judicial Pension was being excluded from higher tax rate due to come in 2006, by a specific separate bill through Parliament just for them, just one week after the Queen’s speech heralding all the new Bills to help the individuals of Britain, but this Judicial Pension Bill was not mentioned however it was ‘hidden’ by it being written about as an attachment in a minor press release!

What hypocrisy! – And the sly way it is introduced, showing with clarity that there is one rule for a certain group of powerful individuals and another for the rest of us!

So within a space of 30 minutes in Britain I have examples where two leaders denied that they were failing, there was no difference, and would not comment on a pressing problem and a vast number of people thinking a major problem such as Global Warming is not a problem that should be addressed, and specific preferential differentiation between groups of individuals – how unfair is this! And these individuals say they are elected by the population to carry out our wishes – just a passing comment, both the Prime Minister and his wife at the time were members of the Legal Profession!

While there is this pervasive sort of attitude, essentially a blatant denial of the factual evidence (totally unscientific attitude to reality) or the utter disregard for different groups of individuals to retain the status quo with impunity, then an outside Entity CANNOT come in and resolve all the issues that plague so many people on this planet. How can an outsider come in with radical new ideas (as a “dictator”) to resolve these problems when the people here blatantly tell us there is not a problem to maintain their preferential current position! Because when this outside entity comes in and “dictates” to people new laws to resolve all these issues, then these very people would claim:

“We do not need them – go away!”

So in conclusion to this first part: The very reason why Almighty God does not step in at present is because: -

It is these very many normal people (and leaders) who deny that there are problems needing to be resolved! And using this example of Global Warming, then this denial makes up about a third of the population of the world!

Unfortunately, the other two thirds of the world is forced to suffer for the one third!

The sad thing is that over ten years the percentage has hardly changed!

So it is this very pandemic opinion (within all countries) over many millions of issues that people in power, or people having power over their own life (in action every day) do not want to accept that they need to have an outside Entity to resolve all these issues! The basic reason why people think like this is because they do not care for “The Truth”. Just as in my examples above, these representatives do not state in public that they care about these issues – else admit it! But they are just so evasive!

Unfortunately to repeat myself, because of this very self satisfying pride in one’s own right to do what one wants to do is precisely the reason why The Almighty God does not come at the moment to relieve the suffering of so many other unfortunate people in this world, is solely due to this pandemic self centred attitude of those in a position to exercise it!

And they do not want to loose the immediate pleasures and privileges that this gives them!

Thus the only solution for The Almighty God (who has infinite power to resolve things perfectly) is to stand back and allow the whole Earthly system (all the social interaction and intercourse) to just grind down to a halt where it becomes so painfully obvious to EVERY INDIVIDUAL ALIVE in whatever position, or walk of life (in whatever country) that there is no future by using whatever means at mankind’s disposal – the planet’s ability to support life as we know it has become absolutely decimated!

Essentially every individual alive must understand that help must come from an Outsider to this planet!

This sounds very apocryphal and a very nasty culmination of worldly events – sadly it is, but while people on earth keep saying there is no problem (I could give thousands of quotations), or give us enough time to sort it out (and almost equal number of quotations could be used), then The Almighty God will give them more time to show to themselves (and those watching or entrusting upon these worldly leaders) the futility of their argument!

So that is the answer to everyone’s question and so the reason why The Almighty God does not step in yet to solve all these worldly problems (created by man upon mankind).

Well I do not want to stop here on a note of doom and gloom – because while this will occur with certainty in the next 50 years, there is fortunately a very bright future and this is what I would like to move onto.

I also know of no other world-wide religion on this planet that is able to provide a very fair and righteous/equitable answer to all this.

Particularly for the representatives of these worldly religions to give a full logical reasoned argument from every angle for every type of human who has existed on this planet!

I fully invite these very ‘learned’ sages, priests and gurus to expound with logic how their own religion answers these problems in a satisfactory manner.

They have my Email Address and I will answer their logic with some of mine own on this website in precise analytical detail on every word they use!

Please, I really do welcome your contribution to initiate an understanding for the readers!

Firstly and fortunately we are able to see now on this planet there are some humans that do work exceeding hard and have very high moral standards when everything else stacked against them. Perhaps these people could be used to help guide the rest of us. But these individuals have no power now, because within this world if you do not scratch my back, then I will not scratch yours (perhaps the possible judicial example above) – so these very moral people will not climb up into positions of power. We know they would upset too many people en route (see earlier) and so be removed or pushed side-ways so that they are not in the position to influence worldly events at a high level. But if they were given power (and fully supported by an All Powerful Entity) in another system and at another time then perhaps something good may happen for us all!

Let us just hang together with that thought for a moment.

So I am speaking of a benevolent “dictator” who has given positions of power to these specific individuals who live exemplary moral lives and work hard to promote the actions of this benevolent “dictator”. This benevolent “dictator” would want the very best for the honest behaving individuals at every level throughout society within every country of the world. Those suffering at present would find comfort and relief in this new regime, administered by these specific individuals who have these very high moral standards working hard to bring justice about within all members of the human race.

This is what we all want!

Well - qualified to mean, all those who are suffering under this current regime of lies, distortion, blackmail, immorality, hate, crime, and so on – all fed by personal selfishness to fuel self-indulgency!

But how can it come about?

Many religions around the world seem to suggest this on a very superficial level, however to get to this position, they offer the most illogical route, a route as proposed that can be destroyed easily by the most superficial logical reasoning. I have already done this for most of the major worldly religions and will release as required - I use the religion in on itself to do it and other supportive evidence. So we must leave those myths to one side.

So repeating myself:-

How do we get to this wonderful condition where all people are treated with justice rather than receiving pain from those leaders who presently within this life ‘Lord’ it over them!

Clearly as present history has shown us - it cannot happen during this time now on Earth. So this present system must be removed. It cannot be performed by human activity, because the last 6000 years or so have shown man to be incapable of doing it! Thus logically it has to be initiated from outside this planet by an extraterrestrial Entity.

Thus an External Almighty God (with infinite power) could come in and reset the worldly system into the new one that I have proposed a few paragraphs earlier.

There is nothing illogical in what I have proposed.

The only thing that could be considered in dispute would be the existence of an External Almighty God. Thus either there is an Almighty Entity that created all things or some form of chance created The Universe, with local pockets of individual creation popping up throughout The Universe of differing levels of intelligence. There is no other option – because other options collapse under reasoned argument.

But let us just hang on the idea of this Almighty Entity – leave it in the air at the moment – neither possible nor impossible, and continue with this line of reasoning.

From this it could be logically extended that if there was an External Almighty God, then this Entity could just be hostile, indifferent or benevolent to us.

All three could be possible, so what are the implications of each:-

1. Hostile

This attitude could explain why there is pain and suffering because this entity enjoys seeing this pain and suffering on this planet.

With total power then it could toy with us directly, but with us being beneath them shows no real ability on the part of this ‘hostile’ entity, thus just leave us to our own devices and watch the fall-out. A little like the idea of the Greek or Hindu gods – slight interaction, a prod here and there to pass the time and muse on the results!

However I believe if The Almighty God of everything, created us and the fantastic mechanism of how a our body operates and reproduces, plus the diverse thought and actions of his creation – then would this Almighty God really seek pleasure from the destruction and pain and suffering of his creation? Would The Almighty God actually create the pain receptors on the surface of our skin for the specific reason to protect us from danger and the harming of this wonderfully constructed fleshly body, just so that he may have pleasure from seeing these pain receptors abused through torture?

Clearly not!

This line of reasoning (clearly it could be expanded to fill a book with thousands of examples) then shows us that this characteristic option of “hostility) is logically very unlikely!

However this does not explain why there is pain on this earth. Perhaps it is just a human attitude. But then we see pain between animals, so it extends beyond humans.

So again really there is no logic to support this line of reasoning at this very top level.

But there is a link which this website explains concerning a lower than this Almighty Entity, who is desirous to be adversarial.

2. Indifferent

The atheists within the scientific community could support this. Separate development of life in other parts of The Universe, some of which would be sufficiently advanced to watch us from afar and be of sufficient integrity to not intervene (perhaps somewhat like the rules of engagement on the program called Star Trek). This argument would not support (1) above because it would be very unlikely that a separately developed Entity having hostile intentions would stay remote from us and would thus be actively involved with us than is currently visible here on Earth. But again there is a link – which this website carefully explains.

But also why don't we have interaction with all other types of intelligent out in the Universe – either they are not out there OR there must be a specific reason why they do not contact us in the way that those who are driving the SETI operation. However there is a very specific reason (given elsewhere in this website) why other life has not contacted us in the way they expect, other than in the manner that this website describes.

Else if as postulated in (1) above that this Almighty God had created us (and in this instance indifferent) then it would be very unlikely that this Entity would leave us for an eternity to our own devices. This entity would desire to be involved with its creation of humans (and other forms of life on this planet) and possibly leave instructions on how to socially behave? So this would push us to (3) below.

But then again we still have pain and suffering on this planet so it must be due to our own desires and sinful nature – as proposed by the Christadelphian religion? No! – This website tells us of something different.

3. Benevolent

We look around us now and see conflicting evidence – pain and suffering, but also we are able to see the wonderful mechanics and structure of nature – to include the Laws of Physics and Chemistry behaving in some of the most wonderful ways – that I love to continually discover in the scientific periodicals that I read.

But there is something clearly amiss here! The two just do not logically align themselves.

However in my discipline of electronics, we do things in what is termed ‘Time multiplexing’. Quite simply discrete periods of time are allocated to carry out certain tasks – this is how the mobile telephone communicates.

A particular task may take in much data and many events may occur, then another task would be carried out and something different will occur.

At the low level, these tasks may take a relatively long time while the data is collected, before switching to another task to collect more data.

However at a high level – operational level, the total time of these particular tasks may be very short in duration. It depends upon what time frame the differing events are referenced to.

This is analogous to exactly what is happening at the human level (low level data collection task) and Almighty God level (high level – at operational level).

Now things can make sense!

At present we are in task 1 (low level) collecting data on each of the human individuals scattered throughout the 6000 years or so who are themselves individually collecting data about themselves and how they interact with each other operating within one type of regime.

If the task is now switched to collect data under a different regime then things start to make sense. Some humans would now behave differently with different external stimuli acting on them. This data could be collected and a reasoned inference could be gathered.

This technique is extensively used in the science community to determine exactly how the subject of the investigation behaves. You always put very different stimuli on this subject of research to get more information out of it before important decisions can be made about the subject. The bigger the difference in stimuli, then the greater information obtained. What you must not do, as proposed by existing worldly religions is make a decision based upon one set of prevailing stimuli else the conclusions may be flawed! That is just one reason out of so many others why these worldly religions can be declared as scientifically flawed!

What I am prepared to show follows the scientific principal and follows the logical Laws of The Almighty Entity, again all worldly religions collapse on this subject as well!

So what am I proposing?

Let us go over the subject matter before us again - together:-

1. Pain and suffering occur because humans (both directly and indirectly) choose this.
2. Directly when people get pleasure through 'Lording it' over others.
3. Indirectly because pain is the natural fall-out from a course of actions followed to satisfy one's immediate self-centred desires to fulfil self-indulgent tendencies.
4. Unfortunately we are not insulated from each other, so the selfish actions of one individual will affect others!
5. Humans are not able accept advice from others and generally must learn from their own failings through personal experience!
6. If an external force intervened early then those benefiting at present would resent the dictatorial methods required to ensure universal justice/equality/righteousness!
7. Humans in the position to control worldly events (resenting external influence) would always use the suggestion that they were not given enough time to resolve the world's problems!
8. Thus from (1 to 7) above it follows that if there was an all powerful Entity (with infinite power to resolve things correctly), then this all powerful Entity would wait until it becomes obviously evident to every human alive that there is now, no safe exit route from a total and universal destruction of intelligent life on this planet.

Well that is a depressing place to end at!

But it is not the end!

9. This External Entity has awesome (unlimited) power to get things done correctly (with wisdom, being the correct application of knowledge).
The name of this External Entity is "I (make) become what/who I choose to become"
10. I have suggested that this Entity will use only a few specific individuals collected from (1 to 8) above who have proved themselves dedicated to fulfil this Entity's Desire against all the pain and suffering brought upon them by those in a position to 'Lord it' over them during the period of (1 to 8). These few very special individuals collected are the ones who through hard work promoted this Entity through works and exercised very high moral principals to their fellow humans.
11. This Entity now acts as a benevolent "dictator" and through the use of Its awesome power will ensure that the old system (our present one) will be dissolved/removed and thus replaced. Those humans who wish to operate in a selfish manner at the expense of fellow humans (and other life) will be disciplined commensurate to their selfish actions. If they persist, then they will be permanently removed from the new social community.
12. This Entity will use those specific humans collected from (10) and place them in the highest positions and they will be entrusted with immense power to operate (far greater than anything that we have seen on this Earth now) because they have demonstrated a very contrite/humble personality/spirit in adversity during the time period of (1 to 8). They have personally demonstrated and proved their principled love of this External Entity by behaving with a contrite manner during the period of (1 to 8) when everything was against them.
13. During this new time frame, we all will be living within a society having a vastly differing stimuli acting upon it. Different conclusions may be drawn from the individuals within it. We now have individuals who were perhaps quite bad in period (1 to 8) but have seen the error of their ways and are now model citizens in this new society – they have reformed their personality/spirit.
14. We are not at the end yet; to this final sifting of individual humans – there is still the possibility of everlasting death hanging over all these humans. The Entity is now in the position to gain much more information from the subjects about their true desires. But much more importantly, fellow humans will behold for themselves that a correct decision is starting to form from the information gathered on their peers during the two part system operating over a 2 part life span. But I need to explain that later.

So I now ask the reader some obvious questions:-

1. Has the above been logically argued?
2. Does it fit the facts that we around us at present? Please ignore pre-6000 year period at present – I address that elsewhere on this website!

3. Does it seem a possible route to 'utopia' that satisfies all internal and external criteria?
4. And - Could this just be possible?

The answer to the questions of 1 to 3 can only be “Yes”!

If a reader finds any part of the above illogical, please contact me through the email contact route on this website with their objections, obviously logically argued and I shall reply.

In answer to (4) above, “Yes” I personally believe that it is possible.

Why?

Because where I gained all this information from - has declared itself as being a trusted reference source. It has stood the test of time, had much abuse thrown at it, suffered much derogatory comments, been hijacked, misconstrued and distorted by individuals claiming to accurately represent it. Its message has been changed to provide a scurrilous means of stealing money off innocent victims, been used to justify abuse, torture and the murder of other humans.

What could this Master Reference Source be called?

It is called The Bible!

The vast majority of worldly Christians claim to represent it and so live by it, but so many of these individuals fall into the list of categories as given above. The message I have read and understand from The Bible is nothing like the one given out by many of these worldly Christians. Unfortunately the deception is becoming much worse, as the end times of which I have spoken get closer to us = The End of The Gospel Age to herald in The Millennium.

Please see Glossary that carefully explains many of these terms.

Perhaps it might seem strange for some people to accept, but everything scriptural I have mentioned (above this line) within this document is directly taken from the written word within The Bible!

But it is never taught – by those who claim to represent this External All Powerful Entity!

And further it is The Desire of this All Powerful Extraterrestrial Entity that the Acceptable Year of The Lord should be taught to all The World and then the end will come to the present pain and suffering.

Thus logically those who do not preach of The Acceptable Year of The Lord are complicit to the pain and suffering that is presently occurring on this planet!

Please read further through this website to understand further:-

1. Why I am able to justify this document (I present a very logical argument and present copious evidence).
2. What happens next after (14) above – because there are a few more important stages before we reach 'utopia'!
3. Why this external and All Powerful Entity is able use The Laws of Nature in a very logical manner – to show inherent consistency to all entities within The Universe!
4. And finally what YOU – “The Reader” should do next!
